Academic Programs

Curriculum

Implementation of the curricular revisions previously approved by the college's Faculty Organization has been a major focus of efforts during the past two years. The revised undergraduate and graduate programs are aligned with new accreditation standards and increase the efficiency with which academic programs can be delivered.

Undergraduate Programs

Enrollment in the BSN program increased as pre-nursing students transitioned to incorporating into their plans of study the additional prerequisite requirements of the new two-plus-two baccalaureate curriculum.

Table 1. BSN Enrollment: January 2011, 2012 and 2013

Year	2011	2012	2013
Number of Students	301	299	359

The quantity and caliber of applicants remains high. The average ACT score of students enrolled in the BSN program is 28. The first cohort of undergraduate students in the clinical major portion of the new two-plus-two baccalaureate curriculum was enrolled Fall 2012. Initial student outcome assessments (ATI Exams) for midpoint in the curriculum showed the highest ATI scores the college has ever achieved.

The number of students seeking the BSN following completion of an associate degree at a community college (RN-BSN program) has remained relatively steady despite the recent recommendation in the Institute of Medicine (IOM) report, The Future of Nursing Leading Change, Advancing Health that the proportion of BSN prepared nurses in the workforce be increased to 80 percent.

Table 2. RN to BSN Enrollment: January 2011, 2012 and 2013

Year	2011	2012	2013
Number of Students	164	115	112

The increase in rigor of admission criteria to be consistent with the intensity of the revised curriculum has posed a barrier to some students. While these elevated standards better position RN-BSN students to pursue graduate study, consistent with recommendations in the IOM report, it is anticipated additional time will be needed to incorporate these expectations into academic planning for these students. Collaboration with nursing employers and community colleges is focused on attracting well-qualified nurses with associate's degrees who will continue their education through the MSN or DNP.

The greatest obstacle to increasing BSN enrollment is the shortage of qualified faculty. This is particularly acute in clinical practicums. In an effort to address this shortcoming, the college collaborated with the Department of Nursing at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics (UIHC) to pilot a dedicated education unit (DEU). BSN-prepared staff nurses from two patient units acted as clinical instructors of the students on the unit with support from faculty members.

Faculty continued to ensure that the expected learning outcomes for their students were met by evaluating their clinical performance, teaching students theoretical content in the classroom and participating in training of DEU instructors. This model for delivering clinical practicum experience allowed the faculty to double the number of students they supervised while continuing to meet the Iowa Board of Nursing requirement for ratio of students to faculty in practice settings. The pilot will continue through the Fall Semester, 2013 and pending positive outcome data and approval from the Iowa Board of Nursing, the college plans to expand the DEUs to more patient care units at UIHC and with other clinical partners. As more DEUs are implemented, it may allow the college to increase undergraduate enrollment

Simulation is increasingly being incorporated in undergraduate practicum courses as a means of promoting development of students' assessment and clinical decision making skills. All BSN practicum courses now require high fidelity simulation experiences. To meet this increased intensity of simulation learning experiences, a nurse clinician with current acute care skills has been recruited as additional faculty through collaboration with Mercy Hospital in Iowa City. This nurse was provided special training in the use of simulation and mentoring in clinical teaching. This model for delivering undergraduate simulation and supervision of direct care learning experiences has enhanced the quality of the students' learning and controlled teaching costs for the college.

Graduate Programs

With implementation of the revised graduate curriculum all graduate specialization courses are offered at the Doctorate of Nursing Practice (DNP) level. Graduate student enrollment has shifted from the Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) program to the DNP. Over the past two years, enrollment in the MSN program decreased from 152 to 39 students. Over the same time period, the number of students enrolled in the DNP program increased from 169 to 212 students. The decline in the number of MSN students was expected as the college phases out all MSN programs except the Clinical Nurse Leader (CNL) for post-BSN students. The first cohort of 56 BSN to DNP students successfully completed their clinical scholarship project and graduated in May 2013.

The PhD program has implemented a new curricular model that combines DNP and PhD students in foundational courses thus providing opportunities for them to collaborate and integrate practice and research. Faculty continue to explore alternative strategies such as synchronous core course delivery to increase enrollment in the face of increasing availability of online PhD programs. Funding to support PhD students through the majority of their program remains a challenge as the college continues to lose top applicants to other schools that are able to provide greater financial support.

Graduate Program Rankings

U.S. News & World Report continues to rank the college's graduate programs in the top 20 (as compared to all public and private universities across the nation). The publications "America's Best Graduate Schools 2014" edition includes the following programs from the College of Nursing:

- No. 2 - Gerontological/Geriatric Nursing
- No. 2 - Nursing Service Administration (Health Systems)
- No. 11 - Nurse Anesthetist
- No. 11 - Master of Science in Nursing
- No. 12 - Pediatric Nurse Practitioner

Exam Performance and Other Outcome Measures

Performance of BSN graduates on the NCLEX exam for registered nurse licensure remains exceptionally high with a 96% pass rate for first time candidates in 2012 and a 98% pass rate for first time candidates in the first half of 2013. Performance of Nurse Practitioner, Nurse Anesthetist and CNL students of their certification exams has been strong (see Table 5).

Academic Program Support

Clinical preceptors are essential to obtaining an adequate number and variety of clinical experiences for both undergraduate and graduate students. The DNP program is especially challenged as enrollments grow and the number of nurse practitioners available to precept students is low. Efforts are underway to develop a recognition and reward system for clinical preceptors to assist in attracting more clinical sites.

Research & Scholarship

In an attempt to increase the college's portfolio of research and scholarship, efforts have been directed toward expansion of the infrastructure to support these functions. Research forums, journal clubs, writing groups, and special interest groups have provided venues for faculty to collaborate with researchers from across the university and learn new approaches to conducting research. Grant writing workshops and pre-submission grant reviews have been intensified in an effort to enhance the competitiveness of grant applications in the face of an increasingly tight funding environment. Partnerships have been forged with UIHC Department of Nursing, faculty clusters, the Veteran's Administration, the ICTS and others to support faculty engagement in interdisciplinary, high-priority areas of research.

The college has persistently sought new external funding to support research (see Tables 7 & 8). The federal funding environment has grown more challenging over the past several years, with success rate for NIH funding decreasing from 21.4% in FY2009 to 18% in FY2012. In FY2013, faculty increased the number of external grant applications submitted. Despite these intensified efforts, only seven new external grants were funded, two of them from federal sources. A complete list of funded grants is available in Appendix A.

The heightened competitiveness of the external funding environment will necessitate that the college expand its research efforts by building interdisciplinary research teams and capitalizing on the research collaboration offered by the faculty clusters. Greater attention will need to be focused on building capacity in priority areas of research, including nursing systems, gerontology, genetics and pain management.

Resources

Fiscal Resources

The decline in state appropriations to the Regents institutions over the past six years is placing increased pressure on colleges to become more efficient in their operations while generating additional sources of revenue to support faculty, staff and programs. For FY12, the college's revenues of $16.6 million exceeded expenses by only $180,084. (See Tables 12 & 13.) Fortunately, for FY13, the college's revenues of $18.7 million exceeded its expenses by $ 3.0 million. (See Tables 14 & 15.) Revenues from online education programs (RN-BSN and DNP) increased 1.0 million from FY12 to FY13. Revenue from grants and contracts increased by almost $900,000 over the same time period. Increases were also realized in Foundations and Public Gifts and Other Revenue such as Certification Center, Classification Center and Course Fees.

Other sources of revenue continued to show growth over the past two fiscal years. Sales of books on standardized language for nursing interventions and outcomes by the Center for Nursing Classification and Clinical Effectiveness continue to bring in more revenue than expenses and a planned endowment of $1 million is within sight. The Certification Center that provides state-required testing for certification of nursing assistants continues to be profitable.

By realigning offerings and focusing on programs that could be lucrative, the college surpassed its goal of assuring that its continuing education activities, including the salaries and benefits for support staff, were at least self-sustaining by the end of FY13. Continuing education activities were profitable in FY12 and FY13, and they are expected to remain profitable in the future. The programs that the college will continue supporting are:

- Annual Spring School Nurse Conference
- New School Nurse Orientation
- Two occupational health conferences
- S.A.N.E. (Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner) conferences

Faculty Practice is a developing source of supplemental revenue for the college. Anticipated expansion of contracts with nursing homes and the opening of the nurse-managed clinic with the Johnson County VNA are projected to generate additional revenue for the college. The Faculty Practice covered 61.5% of expenses in FY12. In FY13, the Practice covered 77.8% of its expenses, including salary and fringe for faculty and student assistance and all general expenses.

The college is fortunate to garner additional revenue from the tuition derived from the RN-BSN and DNP programs. In contrast to the tuition from on campus programs, the college retains approximately 88% of the tuition from courses offered online. As state appropriations for the General Education Fund have decreased, the college has shifted payment of faculty and staff salaries and other operational expenses to these revenues. Revenue from distance education increased 34% from FY 2012 to FY 2013.

Salaries continue to be the largest expense in the college, with faculty salaries accounting for half of the operating budget. Staff salaries make up a fourth of the expense budget. In order to bring expenses into better alignment with projected revenue, efforts will need to be directed toward maximizing fiscal resources needed to support faculty salaries while maintaining strong academic and research programs.

Fundraising

Total fundraising productivity increased substantially between FY2012 and FY2013. For FY 2012, the college raised $1.7 million in public gifts, estate gifts, planned gifts and other deferred gifts. In FY 2013, the amount raised from the same gift sources totaled $4.3 million. The college's goal for the Capitol Campaign, "For Iowa. For Evermore." is $18 million, and as of July 1, 2013 the college had attained 80% of its goal. Funding priorities for the campaign are graduate student scholarships and fellowships, faculty professorships and chairs and support for the Nursing Clinical Education Center.

Faculty

The most challenging threat to the college's future vitality is a shortage of qualified faculty to deliver academic programs and develop research programs. Since 2007 the college has experienced a decline in the number of tenure track faculty due to retirements (Table 16). Clinical track and lecturer appointments have been instrumental to meeting the college's teaching needs, but a continuation of this trend will compromise future funded programs of research and place the college's national rankings at risk. While the college has been successful in recruiting several new Associates and Assistant Professors, as well as one Full Professor during FY 2012 and FY 2013, the declining number of senior tenured faculty leaves fewer experienced faculty to provide the junior faculty mentoring necessary to ensure their success. This trend is projected to continue as 60% of the faculty are 55 years of age and older. While the cluster hire initiatives have enhanced the college's ability to attract new faculty, future recruitment efforts will need to focus on mid-level and senior tenured faculty to replace retiring faculty.

Facilities

Facility upgrades, including installation of a sprinkler system and replacement of ceiling tiles, have ensured that the college will continue to have a safe and functional environment in which to teach and conduct research. In an effort to maximize the energy efficiency of the building, replacement windows will be installed in the Summer of 2013 and 2014. Office space in the NCEC has exceeded capacity and requests for additional space at UIHC have been placed on hold pending completion of new facilities.

Outreach & Community Engagement

Strategic Communication

A comprehensive strategic communications plan, including objectives and policies related to external communications and marketing was completed in FY 2012. During this year, the college also launched a redesigned website featuring intuitive navigation for users and daily updates of content. As prospective students and other stakeholders increasingly rely on websites for information, the college's new site offers a reliable, informative and attractive resource.

Public Outreach

The College of Nursing has been the leading sponsor of statewide initiatives in Iowa to implement recommendations from the Institute of Medicine (IOM) report, The Future of Nursing: Leading Change, Advancing Health. The Iowa Action Coalition was established in February 2012 with Dean Rita Frantz serving as the co-lead. Over the past two years, four statewide summits have been held to garner support and broad input into implementing the report's recommendations in Iowa. Three priority goals have been established:

1. Increase the proportion of nurses in Iowa with a baccalaureate degree to 50%
2. Implement nurse residency programs statewide
3. Remove barriers to scope of practice for advanced practice nurses

Task forces formed within the Iowa Action Coalition continue to develop strategies to facilitate achievement of these goals.

The College of Nursing continued to recognize outstanding nurses in Iowa by sponsoring the 9th Annual Great 100 Nurses Celebration for the State of Iowa. Nurses representing 95 of the 99 counties in Iowa have been recognized for their exceptional contributions to health care in their communities.

All-Inclusive Approach to Diversity

Efforts to enhance diversity and promote an all-inclusive environment have focused on programs to increase the recruitment of underrepresented students and faculty and expansion of enrichment programs. Patients for whom nurses provide care are increasingly demographically diverse, and supporting diversity among our nursing students will further the provision of culturally-competent health care. The overall diversity of the college's students remains relatively unchanged over the past two years (Tables 17 & 18). A significant challenge to recruiting underrepresented students is the absence of a pipeline of secondary students prepared to be competitive applicants for the BSN program. In an attempt to address this limitation, the college has offered supplemental instruction in prerequisite courses to underrepresented students interested in pursuing a nursing major. The program has been successful in improving student performance in the basic sciences and math, increasing the numbers of students who meet minimum qualifications to apply to the BSN program.

The faculty and staff at the college reflect its student population. As of July 1, 2013, 92% of faculty and 88% of staff are female and 91% of faculty and 90% of staff identify themselves as white. Three of the six new faculty hires for the 2012-2013 academic year were from underrepresented groups: one African-American, one international and one male.
